

SEVEN POLICEMEN CONVICTED SINCE ROSENTHAL'S MURDER AND SUBSEQUENT GRAFT DISCLOSURES

trial prior to next fall it probably will be Sergeant Peter Duffy, who is said to have been Sweeney's graft collector in Harlem.

There is considerable speculation as to what may be the sentences imposed on the former inspectors by Justice Seabury on Friday. They have been convicted of a misdemeanor, the punishment for which may be a year in prison, a fine of $500 or both. No one doubts that the maximum punishment will be imposed, at least in the case of Sweeney and Husey, but there seems to be reason to suppose that Justice Seabury may extend some leniency to Thompson and Murtha, against whom the District Attorney's case seemed not to be as strong as against their companions.

A. G. Gilbert, counsel for Murtha, said that by an arrangement with Justice Seabury the man would not be sent to the Penitentiary on Friday, so that there would be no occasion for their attorneys to hurry the matter of asking for a certificate of reasonable doubt. Should this be granted it will not be a stay of proceedings and it may be possible to get the inspectors out on bail. Mr. Gilbert said that application would be made on Friday, probably, but by Monday at the latest.

He scoffed at the idea that his client or the others would accept their fate without further fighting and declared that if in this way only could they avoid trials for bribery then all were certain to be tried, for they had agreed on concerted action and would carry their appeals to the highest court possible. He said:

EXPECTS WHITMAN TO HELP HASTEN APPEALS.

"If Mr. Whitman will co-operate with us we can have these appeals argued in the June term of the Appellate Division. If there be any delay, however, the matter will have to go over to the October term because of the summer recess.

"I am convinced that I shall get a reversal for Murtha. He has secured me that he has nothing to confess, and so could have made no confession to the District Attorney, and he has explained his visit to him by saying that he hoped, after having explained his absolute lack of connection with the case, to save himself from the ignominy of an indictment."

But it is Murtha to whom the District Attorney looks still for a confession which will give into his hands others of the "men higher up"—men higher than the inspectors just convicted. Murtha has six children down with measles, and it is known that he has no money to go to prison. As yet, however, no proposal has been received from him.

The dismissal of the ex-inspectors by Commissioner Waldo recalls some instances where policemen found guilty of misdemeanors were retained on the force and resumed their duties after having served prison terms. Capt. Kishan, when head of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau, was sentenced to thirty days and served them for technical neglect in illegally having fingerprinted a man. He was returned to his old post after his prison term.

In Sweeney's time a policeman named Molloy served ninety days on Blackwell's island for beating his wife and then resumed his uniform.

SIX MEN IN SYSTEM TO BE REACHED YET.

In any one of the four convicted men had an inclination to become a State's witness, it is believed that Justice Seabury would bring such results. But it is known, it is not likely to be for anything less than the dismissal of some "higher up" than an inspector. The penalty for bribery in the police, and the promptness of last week's convictions may point to some one of the men the danger of going to jail on the same evidence.

The inspectors spent an uncomfortable and sleepless night in the Tombs. Murtha and Sweeney shared Cell No. 104, while Husey and Thompson were in No. 105. The cell once occupied by "Dago Frank" Crockett and "Whitely Louie," the former gunman.

Having failed to sleep, they were ready for their breakfast early, and when coffee and rolls were sent in to them from a nearby restaurant. All except Sweeney partook of the food. He was unable to swallow a morsel and later, when reporters tried to see him, he said:

"I don't want anybody."

The others contented themselves with replying that they had nothing to say.

The families and friends of the four men, gathered in their respective homes to-day, and indicated their continued loyalty. Like the prisoners, they felt confident the trial would end in acquittal and the verdict stunned them.

HELD FOR SELLING GIRL.

Magistrate holds Young Argentinean Without Bail for Trial.

Francisco de Tihaldi, the young Argentinean who was arrested Saturday in Columbus Circle after he had accepted a roll of bills from Y. S. Katsaris, a Japanese, living at No. 241 West Fifty-seventh street, and charged with having accepted the money in payment for Evele Glenn, a seventeen-year-old girl who had run away from her home at No. 410 East One Hundred and Sixty-third street to live with De Tihaldi, was held without bail today by Magistrate Marsh in the Municipal Court for trial in Special Session.

The Tihaldi's lawyer admitted he took evidence, but said the Japanese was merely reimbursing him for expenses which he had been put in maintaining the girl in a furnished room.

SLAIN POLICEMAN BURIED WITH HONOR BY HIS COMRADES

Commissioner Waldo and Police Band Accompany Body to the Grave.

GANGSTERS JOIN HUNT.

Reward of $1,000 Being Raised to Help in Search for Triple Slayer.

The funeral of William B. Heaney, one of the two policemen killed on Saturday night, was held to-day from the little flat a month flat he occupied with his bride at No. 717 Prospect place, Brooklyn. John Rizzo, the gunman who was killed by Shieldsians, was buried yesterday, and Charles Teare, the other police victim of the dwarf assassin, will be buried to-morrow.

The funeral of Heaney was attended with full police honors. Capt. Kinsler of the Mulberry street station, two lieutenants and a platoon of policemen from the precinct acted as the escort for the hearse from the house to Holy Cross Cemetery in Flatbush. Commissioner Waldo, Deputy Commissioner McKay and Police Chaplains McGuffey and Sullivan rode behind the hearse. The police band played dirges along the route of the funeral cortege and at the grave.

Heaney's widow, who is soon to become a mother, broke down in St. Theresa's Church during the requiem high mass, but recovered on going to the cemetery with the father, three brothers and sister of the murdered policeman.

ITALIANS PAY TRIBUTE TO "MARTYRED HERO."

There were many floral tributes, the chief of which were a floral shield from Heaney's comrades in the Mulberry Street Precinct and an immense bouquet which bore the card "Italian tribute to a martyred hero." This latter was sent to the house by business men of the precinct.

The search for Shieldsians continued to-day without abatement. After Heaney's funeral the policemen of the precinct who were off duty reported at the station house and went out in dozens of clothes to aid the detail of detectives assigned to the hunt for the murderer by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty.

The Booth Steamship line is co-operating with the police in running down a rumor that Shieldsiana escaped from the city aboard the Clement, a Booth steamer which sailed on Monday for the Barbados and South American ports.

POLICE MAKE UP REWARD FOR SLAYER'S CAPTURE.

In the hunt for Shieldsiana the police have the aid of members of the Kenmare street gang, with which Rizzo was associated—members of the gang have volunteered their assistance and are actively working with the police. Aid in the search is also being given by the merchants, restaurant keepers and billiard room proprietors of downtown "Little Italy," who have subscribed $200 toward a reward for the capture of the assassin. Policemen of the district station have contributed $100 and, through the Italian Benevolent Association, have been asked to donate enough to make the reward $1,000. The police believe that Shieldsiana is hiding with friends in one of the Italian quarters of the city and that the offer of a reward will be a powerful factor in bringing his hiding place to light.

Policemen who attended the funeral of Rizzo yesterday reported to Commissioner Dougherty that there was a large attendance of members of the Kenmare street gang and other gangs who have flocked into the Third Assembly District since a primary fight has been inaugurated by Larry Mulligan and Paddy Sullivan to dethrone Senator J. C. Fitzgerald from the leadership.

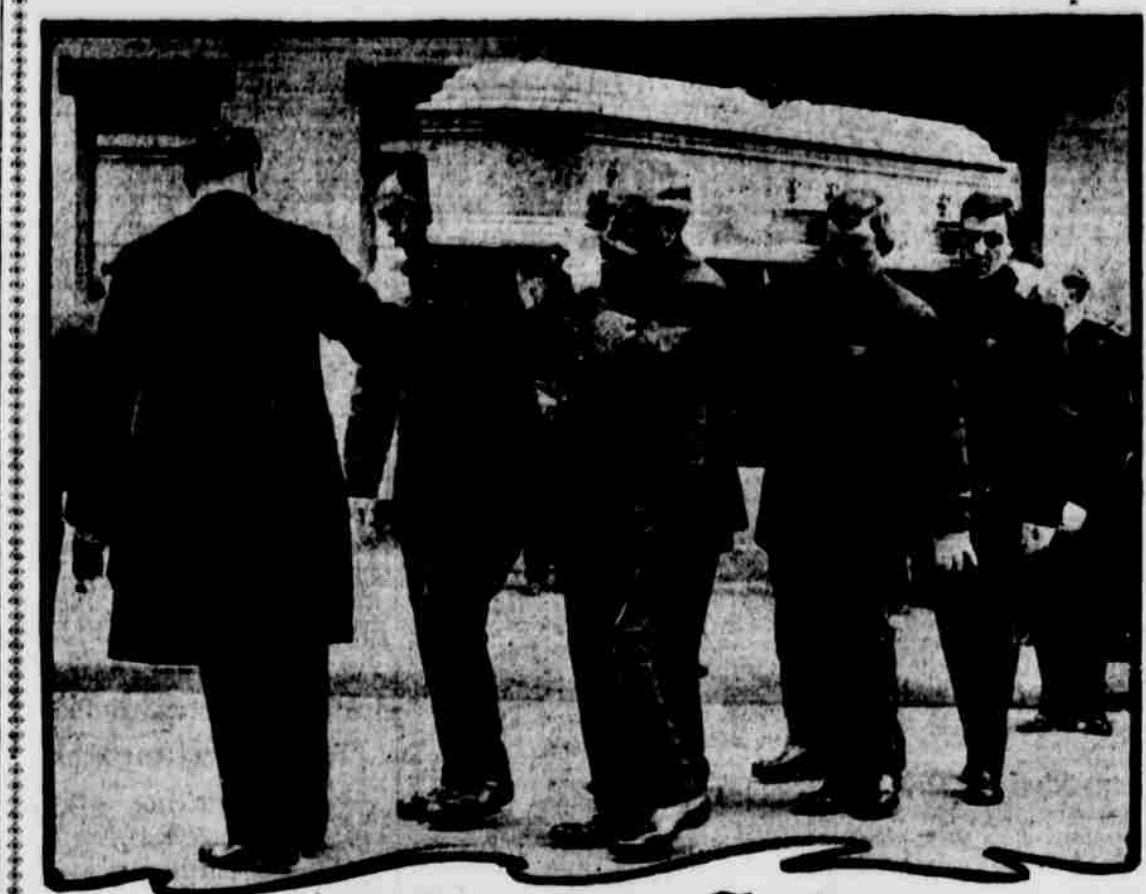

Each of the Kenmare street gangmen touched the coffin and then placed the doubled up index finger of his right hand in his mouth and bit the joint. This is said by Italian detectives to be the Sicilian method of vowing vengeance for the death of a comrade.

Mrs. Longstreet Fears Opposition.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, Postmistress at Gainesville, Ga., widow of the former Confederate general, has addressed the Senate setting out her fears that influences her working against her reappointment or her confirmation should President Wilson name her. President Taft reappointed Mrs. Longstreet over some opposition.

HEROINE OF THE SKIS SAVES GIRL FRIENDS LOST IN MOUNTAINS

Trio Arrive Here After Thrilling Experience Amid Snows of Norway.

Three Norwegian girls of the lithe, pink-cheeked, blond type of outdoor folk who live beside the fjords arrived to-day on the Scandinavian American liner C. F. Tietjen. They were Augusta Christiansen of Christiania, Emily Eilertsen of No. 102 Lincoln Parkway, Chicago, and Alma Tredge of No. 23 East Eighty-second street, New York. Each had tucked under her arm, as she came down the gangplank a carefully wrapped pair of skis—their most precious possessions.

Miss Tredge is the holder of many of the championships of the skiing contests at Høten, north of Christiania. She goes back to Norway every winter to defend her titles and win new honors. Miss Christiansen also has a local reputation for speed and skill on the long wooden skis.

Miss Eilertsen went from Chicago to Norway for a visit with her childhood friend, Miss Christiansen. They became acquainted with Miss Tredge at Horton during the ski season. Along toward the close of the meet, Miss Christiansen and Miss Eilertsen took a trip to the mountains. They expected to be out only a few hours, and carried only a light lunch. Confused by a snowstorm, they lost their way, and were finally forced to take refuge in a cave in a desolate mountain.

All the expert ski users at the meet volunteered for the searching party when they were missed. The Government sent a company of soldiers to help. But it was Miss Tredge, working at the head of a squad she led away from the general body of searchers, who found them in the three days, starving and near freezing. The three separated after the meet, and Miss Christiansen and Miss Eilertsen lost Miss Tredge's address, and never expected to see her again.

The two adventurous friends were overjoyed to find Miss Tredge on the Tietjen. They were inseparable on voyage, to the comic sorrow of several young men who seemed to desire isolated conversation with any or all of the three. Miss Tredge will entertain her friends here for a week or two, and has promised to visit in Chicago the girls whose lives she saved.

TWO KILLED WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO TROLLEY.

(Special to The Evening World.) PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Two persons were killed this afternoon when an automobile in which they were riding down Skipack Hill, near Collegeville, crashed into a crowded trolley car. One of the victims is the driver of the car, who is believed to be William Engle, chauffeur for William Dersley jr. of No. 22 South Eleventh street, this city. The other victim is thought to be a friend of Engle whom he picked up along the road while out testing the car, which had recently been purchased.

The collision occurred on a steep incline, and as the machine was going at a speed of about fifty miles at the time the bodies were catapulted into a creek which skirts the road about fifty yards distant. The passengers on the trolley car escaped injury.

SUFFRAGE DEFEAT SHOWS A MAJORITY FOR GIVING BALLOT

suffrage bill in the House of Commons last night. Although strongly opposed by Premier Asquith, and, therefore, officially by the party in power, the suffrage bill secured a majority of three among those in the House of Commons voting purely upon the question itself. The bill was defeated by a majority of 47.

Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, supported the bill. He said there was ample evidence that a majority of three among those in the House of Commons voting purely upon the question itself. The bill was defeated by a majority of 47.

Lord Balfour, advocating the bill, contended that to vote against it because of militant tactics would be utterly illogical and unworthy the high standard of intelligence claimed by the members of the House of Commons.

The Right Hon. Walter Hume Long, in opposing the measure, contended that the passages of the bill would not stop militant tactics but would only lead to fiercer agitation for a larger measure of enfranchisement.

A motion to reject the bill was carried—225 to 214. The House was thronged and personal and an atmosphere of electrical excitement when the division was called on the motion of Arnold Ward, son of Mrs. Humphry Ward, the author, to reject the bill. Among those who voted for the measure were:

Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Minister; Chancellor of Exchequer Lloyd George; President of the Board of Trade Sydney Buxton; Chief Secretary for Ireland Augustine Birrell; President of Agriculture Walter Runciman; Sir Rufus Isaacs, Attorney General; and Under Secretary Sir John Simon, C. F. G. Masterman, F. D. Acland, Dr. Macnamara and McKinnon Wood. The only front bench Unionist supporting the bill was Stuart-Wortley.

Among those voting with Premier Asquith against the bill were: Home Secretary McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, Lewis Harcourt, C. E. Hobhouse, J. E. B. Seely, Joseph Pease and Herbert Samuel; and on the Tory side Lord Edmund Talbot, Sir Robert Finlay, Sir William Anson, Walter Long, F. E. Smith and ex-Speaker Chaplin.

Neither Mr. Balfour nor his successor as Unionist leader, Bonar Law, voted. The last Women's Suffrage Bill was defeated by 222 to 208 last year.

CARNEGIE'S STANDING AS VOTER BROUGHT OUT BY A MILITANT QUERY

Secretary Says He Is American Citizen and Could Not Cast Ballot in Scotland.

LONDON, May 7.—Miss Mae Scott-Troy, the Suffragette of San Francisco, called to-day to Andrew Carnegie as follows:

"What right have you to pose as an American citizen when you are registered as a voter in the parish of Dorchester, in the County of Sutherland, Scotland. You are voter No. 11 on the official list received by me to-day from the Sheriff of the county. Why did King Edward offer you a Dukedom?"

Mr. Carnegie is described on the voting list as "Occupation, gentleman. Place of abode, Skibo Castle."

"Mr. Carnegie is an American citizen," said James Bertram, his private secretary, to-day. "He became so without naturalization because he came here as a minor when he was eleven years old and his father was naturalized before he became of age. If he is registered as a voter in Scotland he had nothing to do with it personally. He is a property owner there and his name probably appears on the registry list in connection with that fact. He could not vote in that country because he is an alien there."

GEN. WINGATE'S CONEY BOARDWALK PLAN IS FAVORED

Comptroller Declares It Superior to That of Board's Committee.

The Coney Island boardwalk project, as suggested by The Evening World, was again discussed to-day by the Committee of the Board of Estimate having the matter in charge. The Comptroller, who is a member of the committee, said he was favorably impressed with the plan of Gen. Wingate to build boardwalks. These structures will enable the natural building of the beach proper, because of the action of the ocean waves. The so-called Wingate plan, because of its economy and practicability, appeals to the Comptroller. He admitted the plan of the city should give way to the more practicable Wingate idea. A proposal of the entire situation, the Comptroller said:

"I think the Wingate plan is better than ours, for not only does it appear to be more economical, but it also takes into consideration the addition to the beach, and our plan makes no provision for the rehabilitation of the beach at all."

The Comptroller told Walter E. Warner, who appeared at the head of a delegation from the West End Improvement League, that while the committee might consider any plan less expensive, it positively would not consider one more expensive than the one it has already advanced. Mr. Warner had objected particularly to the Wingate plan and said that while the members of the West End Improvement League considered the committee's plan preferable to that, they still thought the League's original plan, calling for the acquisition of a 100-foot-wide strip of upland for the boardwalk, was the best of all.

"The plan we have advanced is just as far as we are willing to go," said the Comptroller emphatically. Comptroller Prendergast admitted the city's plan would involve the destruction of a good deal of property now built up to high water line. Gen. Wingate declared this plan would cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. His plan would not cost more than one-tenth of this sum, he said.

WON'T QUIT FAITH FOR TITLE.

Baltimore Girl, Future Countess, Will Not Join Catholic Church.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 7.—Miss Louise Warfield will not abandon her religious faith when she weds Count Vladimir Ledochowski on Thursday. She made this announcement to-day when discussing her approaching wedding at the home of her father, Edwin Warfield, formerly Governor.

"You may say," said Miss Warfield, "that I never have considered adopting the Catholic faith."

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. William A. Fletcher of the Cathedral, and Cardinal Gibbons will be present.

GOV. SULZER CALLS THE EXTRA SESSION TO MEET JUNE 18

Likely to Include Niagara Power and Stock Exchange Incorporation Bills.

ALBANY, May 7.—Gov. Sulzer announced at a conference of direct primary advocates to-day that he would call upon the Legislature to reconvene in extraordinary session on June 18 to consider direct primary and other legislation.

Gov. Sulzer said to-day he had received a letter from United States Senator O'Gorman, expressing regret that the Legislature had failed to pass the bill designed to give New York State control over the diversion of waters at Niagara Falls for power purposes. The Legislature passed a resolution providing for an investigation of the subject by a legislative committee which is to report next year.

The Governor is considering the advisability of renewing his recommendation for the passage of this bill at the extraordinary session of the Legislature. He also has under advisement the question of again asking the Legislature to pass a bill to incorporate the New York Stock Exchange.

The Governor believes that unless the State takes favorable action on these propositions the Federal Government will assume control over them.

The Governor says he signed the Frawley laws, increasing from 4 to 1½ per cent. the rate of interest on State bonds held by trust companies, savings banks and insurance companies, upon information furnished by the State Comptroller's office. He says he will investigate the matter.
